Fremont Nominated.

The telegraph brings intelligence of the nomination of General Fremont yesterday afternoon by the Cleveland convention. That his nomination was made by acclamation surprises no one who has been cognizant of the manner in which the convention originated. It was called on purpose to nominate him, and nobody else, and had it put any other man upon the track, it would have defeated the sole, and only object of its assembling. Having put him in nomination their next business will be to elect him. That will be a much more serious undertaking than to nominate him. The latter was a mere pastime—a pleasant diversion, a joke; but to elect a man now-a-days to the Presidency needs organization, influence, votes. The gentleman who amused themselves yesterday at Cleveland, haven't either.

"As for Fremont, he would be unexceptionable to us as the candidate of the political party with which we eat, and whose principles we believe to be just and true altogether; but he is not now the choice of that party, and probably will not be; and any one who imagines he can receive one electoral vote, naturally deceives himself."

We greatly over-estimate General Fremont's good sense, if, after the Baltimore Convention and he is not nominated by it, he does not quietly take himself out of the flag as a candidate, and advise his adherents to support the Union ticket. In that way he will manifest his patriotism and good judgement at the same time.

War Brewing in Europe.

A most intelligent and capable Englishman of the Liberal school, who has recently twice traversed Europe from London to Stamboul, in a private letter to the Editor of the N. Y. Tribune, thus epitomizes the situation:

"I have made a most attentive investigation of the state of public feeling in Turkey, Greece, Italy, France and Switzerland, and will give you a resume on which you may depend."

"The Turks, Arabs, and all the Mohammedan tribes, hate the Emperor of the French; 1st, because he supports the Pope, whom the Greeks think the greatest enemy of their religion. 2d, because the Emperor has bullied them, and they have taken entirely to the British Alliance.

"The Italians hate the Emperor of the French, with such hatred as only Italians perhaps can feel:

"First, Because, they say, he gave money to Italian soldiers to shoot Garibaldi; that brigands, dressed as soldiers, paid with French gold, did the act of assassination. (I am myself fully persuaded that they are right in that.)

"Second, Because he keeps their Capital (Rome) away from them, and has done all they could to keep up confusion and brigandage; to disunite and enslave them, instead of uniting them and liberating them.

"Third, Because, breaking his solemn promise, he betrayed them after the victories of Montebello, Magenta and Solferino.

"Fourth, Because the Italians are republicans, and the Emperor is the perfidious destroyer of European Republicanism. (The man is doing his best to be now the destroyer also of American Republicanism.)

"The Swiss hate Napoleon, because they are Republicans, and good men, and know him to be the treacherous enemy of Liberty.

But what is more important than all the rest, and it is, by the blessing of the Great Being, perfectly true,

"The French people and the French army are heartily sick of Napoleon.

"From long practice, I speak French nearly the same as English, and had excellent opportunity for acquiring information, both going through France, returning, and again on my late visit.

"I am astonished at the state of things; I never could have believed it. On my saying a word about the Emperor and Mexico, peasants, farmers, bourgeois, private soldiers and officers, go off in torrents of invective against the Emperor, such as I could hardly have imagined, and that in the presence of an Englishman. Such days as those of Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette may not be so distant as people suppose. The French are a fierce, fiery and haughty race, and I can only look on the Emperor as sitting on the peak of a volcano in imminent danger of eruption."

You will want to know what the French themselves put forward as their principal grievances:

"I. For each of the last three years, the Conscription has been 100,000 a year, the previous maximum having been only 10,000.

"II. One hundred thousand having been sent to Mexico (and the French hate sentry-boats), of which only about 55,000 at most, remain alive.

"III. That the regiments sent to Mexico, were selected as being the most Republican, the most Legitimist, or the most Orleanist, and the Bonapartist regiments kept at home.

"IV. That Republican, Legitimist and Orleanist officers, were unfairly exchanged into the doomed regiments.

"V. That the luxury, extravagance of the Court are beyond measure, and the finances of the country are seriously suffering therefrom.

"VI. That the turbulent policy of the Emperor is resuscitating the Holy Alliance, viz.: Prussia, Austria and Russia, against France. (There is no doubt this is quite true.) The French don't like to be brought, without cause, into a war with three Nations at a time, and they think—I believe—with justice—if with three, then with four—four-and-a-half odds! Also Italy; that makes five. Then the whole Mohammedan population of Africa, with Turkey, six—a very poor look-out."

The DELAWARE Union Guards, comprising men from all parts of the county, left town yesterday for Madison. Among them were many of the noblest and best men of the county. Walworth turned out fifteen stalwart men. Shuron, Geneva and Darien were also represented. Elkhorn, however, is entitled to the banner, some fourteen of its citizens, all of them men, being in the ranks. We were present to see them off, as was a large portion of the men and women of Elkhorn. There were weeping wives and prattling children, who wondered "where papa was going?" We could only say then, with a heart of tears, as we say now, God bless them! Delavan Patriot.

General Seymour Taken Prisoner—He Makes a Speech at Charlottesville, Virginia.
(From the Richmond Examiner of the 18th)

No more propitious exhibition has been seen in the course of this war than the town of Charlottesville held the other day on the arrival of those two Yankee Brigadier Generals who had been captured in the night attack by Gordon's brigade in the Wilderness. The two worthies are named Shaler and Seymour. The former has visited Richmond before, in his capacity of Captain of a company in the New York "7," when that dandy regiment of New York cockneys was entertained there on the occasion of the Monroe funeral obsequies. Seymour is the same commander who, at Ocean Pond, in Florida, hurled his negro troops up against the walls of Confederate guns. If he had been caught on that occasion, in the very act of leading runaway slaves to attack their masters, it is presumed that he would have been hanged or shot, as he well deserved to be.

It was the fortune of those two brigadiers to be first marched into Orange Court House, with about twelve hundred other prisoners.

They were halted opposite the railing which inclosed the court house, but while Shales stood in a sufficiently natural manner, and with apparent unconcern, the other furnished amusement to the few spectators by his studied attitudes and highly elaborate glances. Standing extremely erect, with one thumb stuck in his belt, and evidently regarding himself as an object of intense interest to the village, he first looked up around the window to see whether the women were peering, and asking their own hearts who the proper young man in shoulder-straps could be. Then looking down upon the sidewalk, where some little boys, both white and black, were (we must confess) grinning, he temporal his familiar smile with an austere regard of control, and shot indignant flashes from his dark eyes. This was apparently all the notice he vouchsafed to so small a place as Orange. But now comes the absurd part of the affair.

On arriving at Charlottesville, a large town, able to turn out a greater crowd of spectators, this whipped brigadier thought of honoring the place, as far as to address his "fellow-citizens" at the rail road depot. The thing would seem incredible, yet truly worthy gentlemen avouch the fact that by some unaccountable, but most culpable connivance of the officer of the guard, this creature was actually permitted to make a speech to the citizens of Charlottesville. They even report the substance of the speech, which was to the following effect: "General Lee may possibly defeat General Grant and the Federal army; but, what of that? I, trust if he may defeat him, he may follow up his success by taking Washington and burning it to the ground." And let him not stop there; let him capture and burn Baltimore, then advance on Philadelphia and burn that; Then at last we shall have a united North, and shall begin to show you what war is."

This, from the ill-starred Brigadier who has never done anything in the world but run away from Finnegan in Florida, and yield himself, rescue or no rescue, at the first yell of Georgians in the Wilderness.

They even report the substance of the speech, which was to the following effect: "General Lee may possibly defeat General Grant and the Federal army; but, what of that? I, trust if he may defeat him, he may follow up his success by taking Washington and burning it to the ground." And let him not stop there; let him capture and burn Baltimore, then advance on Philadelphia and burn that; Then at last we shall have a united North, and shall begin to show you what war is."

Messrs. Bennett Pieters & Co., of Chicago, always have an assorted stock of fine imported wines in U. S. bonded warehouses, from the most reliable houses of France, Spain and Germany, also brandies, gins, rum, &c.; and have for the past three years been making extensive preparations for the manufacture of home-made wines. They have the most extensive arrangements with fruit growers, and in the proper season they gather strawberries, cherries, peaches, blackberries, raspberries &c. &c., to an enormous amount. Their strawberry, cherry, blackberry, raspberry and mulberry wines far exceed many of the imported wines, both in purity and exhilarating effects. Many of these home-made wines are being largely adulterated, and many a bottle of cherry wine is sold, which never had a drop of cherry juice in it. Buy none but those with the unmistakable label of Bennett Pieters & Co. These gentlemen are men of high respectability, and guarantee every article from their house pure and unadulterated;

NATIVE WINES—SACRED HISTORY
abounds in allusions to wine, and as there are thirteen distinct Hebrew terms used in the Bible to distinguish vintages of different kinds, condition and ages, it is evident that the ancient people were less particular in the matter of "brands" than are the people of the present day.

The Greek and Romans had two hundred varieties, of which the "Falerium" was the choicest; and the products of particular vineyards were as highly esteemed in Athens and Rome, as the Clique and Metternich wines now are in London and Paris. The wines of antiquity were often villainously adulterated. "The art of doctoring" the juice of the grape is so far from being a modern invention that it dates back to the siege of Troy. Helen, the fair and frail, is said to have learned the trick in Egypt, and to have practised it for the sake of increasing the exhilarating properties of the wine she gave to the defenders of the city after a hard battle with the Greeks.

The safest and best of all exhilarants is good wine. Many physicians and matrons suppose we must have foreign wine. There is one hundred times the quantity of wine exported from France, Spain and Germany, than can be manufactured there from the quantity of grapes. There is but one safeguard, and that is to use our native wine. Imported wines now pay a heavy duty, and a bottle of real Port or Sherry can only be obtained at a high price. There is no duty or tax on native wines—therefore, in the name of purity and economy, let us have our own native wines.

FARMERS, TAKE NOTICE!

The undersigned are having made at Beloit, Wis., one hundred of those Reapers known as the Cheap, or Webber Reaper!

Nothwithstanding the increase of nearly double in price over what all material costs in the manufacture, we are going to sell for 1864, at about the same prices as before. Our prices at the shop are $1.00@1.05 each for Choice Reaper, or Reaper and Mower $1.40. We are making a few more, which will be warranted to do good work. They will be of steel instead of the buckeye pattern, except the hinge.

These buying Reapers alone can have Mowers the next year or thereaf're for the same price, as the other end of the season.

We do not dare, however, to extol our Reaper, for it is already known, to be the only two-horse Reaper in use. Notwithstanding a great many are used with two horses, they ought to use three or four, and ours, of course, are easy to the horse as ours are to two ordinary horses.

Please send in your orders early to be sure of a machine, as positively only one hundred of them will be built, and we will warrant each and every machine to except the hinge.
